LOOSE LEAF WARE- HOUSE ALMOST READY

At Hardinsburg -- Henderson
Route Runs Switch Into Building -- Switch Service For All.

READY DECEMBER 1

The Breckenridge Loose Leaf Tobacco Warehouse Co., Hardinsburg, are putting the finishing touches on their large warehouse near the depot for handling all grades and types of tobacco. The Henderson Route has run a switch into the building, giving the company splendid facilities for shipping and receiving. A road way, running the entire length of the building, will give the farmers plenty of room and quick service in unloading. This warehouse is as well equipped as any in the State for the sale of loose leaf tobacco. They will have plenty of buyers to take care of all the offerings. They will be ready for business December 1.

EMDEN MAKES FOES HELP.

Germany's Naval Terror to Allies
Coals From Captured Ships.

Naval men throughout the world at war or peace are praising the exploit of the German cruiser Emden, which, flying the Japanese flag and disguised by the addition of a fourth smoke-stack, entered Penang, a British possession in the Straits Settlements, and fired torpedoes which sank the Russian cruiser Jemtechug and a French destroyer.

One explanation of how the Emden is able to keep at sea without putting into ports for coal is contained in a cablegram received from Colombo, Ceylon, by the owners of the steamer Exford, one of the vessels captured by the Emden.

The cable reported the safe arrival at Colombo of the captain and crew of the Exford and added that the commander of the Emden announced before he sank the Exford that he intended to take on board the cruiser the 7,000 tons of steam coal which the Exford carried.

The Emden, by the addition of a cruiser and a destroyer to the long list of ships she has sent to the bottom, is in a fair way to rival the amazing record of destruction made during the civil war by the Alabama, one of the warships built in England for the Confederate states. It was the Alabama's havoc that afterward gave rise to the so-called "Alabama claims."

During the twenty-three months of her existence the Alabama sank more than seventy ships, many of them merchantmen. Some writers place the number at more than 150. The Emden, it is reported, already has sunk twenty merchantmen in addition to two warships.

War Kills "Peace Tree."

The peace tree planted by Representative Richard Bartholdt in the capitol grounds at Washington in 1898, when peace was made between the United States and Spain, is dying. The starry oak had progressed slowly until the end of July last, when it began to droop.

Muensterberg Mastered.

Dad from the hall--Why, Marjorie, how dim the light is in here!

Freddy (the fiance, not a college graduate in vain)--Yes, sir. Professor Muensterberg has a theory that brilliant light benumbs the intellect. We are experimenting to find the degree of illumination by which the attention is kept vivid and the mental functions active.--London Standard.

Only One Flavor.

"I never take any other flavor in ice cream or soda water than vanilla," said the Boston girl to her New York cousin.

"Are you so fond of it as that?"

"Not exactly, but it is obtained from a bean, you know."--St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A Family Jar.

"I suppose you know I came near marrying Jim Wombat before I married you."

"Yes, I know it," said the gossiped husband. "He rubs it into me every time he gets a chance."--Kansas City Journal.

Then He Was Fired.

Father--I cannot give you my daughter, my dear sir. I am mighty particular in such things. Suffer. Oh, please! Now, I am not in the least so--Magendorfer Blatter.

What is not necessary is dead at a penny--Cato.

SANTA'S SHIP IS FITTING OUT

Will Take Message of Good
Will to Europe.

COLLIER JASON THE BEARER.

Laden With Christmas Gifts From Children of America and Others to Orphans Made by War, She Will Visit England and France and Other Countries.

Not a day passes without news of more killings in the frightful strife in which Europe is engaged, and some men have calculated that by next Christmas 1,000,000 children will be fatherless because of the war.

It is to bring at least a little Christmas joy to these orphans that America's Santa Claus ship will sail from New York on Nov. 15 with a cargo of gifts from the children of America and other well meaning persons to the children of the war stricken countries of Europe.

The collier Jason has been designated by Secretary Daniels to carry the Christmas presents. The Jason is 530 feet long and 65 feet wide. Her hold is 36 feet 3 inches deep. She can carry 10,500 tons. She is made of steel throughout. Her cost was $951,000. The commanding officer of the ship is Henry T. Merriweather, who ranks as a master in the naval auxiliary service.

Jason Is Uncle Sam's Contribution.

With the assignment of the Jason everything has been done that can be done by the government to make the children's Christmas movement a success.

The navy department has been working on the itinerary of the Jason. It is expected that the first stop will be made in England. From there the collier will cross the channel and probably go to Havre, since that is the nearest port to Paris, provided that port is still an open port by the time the Jason reaches the other side.

All the foreign countries have assured a safe convoy to the Santa Claus ship. France is going to give her a reception, and so is England, and, as for the other countries that will be visited, everything points to a grand welcome.

Interest in the Christmas ship throughout the country has been stimulated for several weeks by influential newspapers in various large cities, which have been urging their readers to contribute gifts for the children of Europe.

Wilson Greatly Interested.

John Chilton O'Laughlin, the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Herald, wrote:

"Think of it, children of America! President Wilson, your president, is very much interested in the plan to send Christmas gifts to the fatherless little ones of war ridden Europe."

"The ambassadors of the countries at war, the men who are on duty at the capital of the nation looking after the interests of their respective nations, say that your gifts will be received and bring joy and comfort and great thankfulness to those boys and girls whose fathers are dead and for whom there can be no Santa Claus unless you take his place."

"Isn't it marvelous that you can so stir the world; that you can get the United States, which is neutral, to join with Great Britain, France and Russia and Germany and Austria and little Belgium, all of which are belligerents (that is a mouthful, in sending a ray of light through the gloom that covers Europe?"

"What does all that mean?"

"It means first of all that through the work of your brains and your hands you are going to make a little girl or a little boy smile through his tears on Christ's birthday."

"Isn't that worth working for?"

"Then it means that war will pass by the ship that carries your gift to the poor, fatherless child; the ship with the stars and stripes, your country's flag, and the streamer of white with the star of hope, Christ's flag, and the single word 'Inasmuch.'"

Mrs. Susan Brown Dead.

Mrs. Susan Brown died at her home near Free Ky. Sunday night at 12 o'clock. Mrs. Brown's death was due to old age, she was past 90 years old. She is the mother of ten children of whom eight survive her. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon from the home, and the remains were laid to rest in the Wheatley cemetery near Patesville.

SPLENDID IDEAS.

Young People Have Too Many Religious Advantages and Cannot Appreciate Them.
Other Notes.

The Week-Of-Prayer and Self-denial services of the Woman's Missionary Society, of the Methodist church, was enjoyed by many members of the church and everyone seemed helped and benefited at the close of the week. The programs for each day were very instructive and many outside of the society took part. Mrs. Frank Perry gave a most interesting talk on the Baptist work in Brazil. "We think we are interested in missions, but we are not," said Mrs. Perry. She gave comparisons of the number of workers and churches in this country and those in Brazil. "The United States is over run with churches," and Christianity is so convenient for us, that our young people are constantly postponing interest and work in religion. There is so much of the gospel they do not appreciate it."

Mrs. Allen Kingsberry gave a delightful report of the District Conference at Livermore. She said: Cloverport was on an average with other societies in membership and dues paid in during the year, but the Cloverport Adult Society was greatly in arrears in contributing to the pledge. The other Auxiliaries say just as soon as they pledge, they begin at once to raise the amount and before the year has ended their pledges are up in full. Bible reading should be introduced into every meeting of the society. The new constitution was given. Miss Orr explained everything about the dues and how to contribute to both departments without confusion. Rev. Mr. Buckner said it is not the fear of disappointment in paying dues from those who are not financially able, but it is those who are able and will not pay. She told of the women who took little children from the Wesley House of Louisville, last summer and gave them a visit in the country.

Sunday the Rev. W. C. Frank preached a splendid sermon on co-operation in missions.

Respect For Each Other In Married Life.

Not only self-respect, but respect for the individuality of the husband and the wife, is at the basis of true happiness in marriage, the acknowledgement of the right to that freedom of the one individual which does not affect injuriously the freedom of the other; a regard for identity and idiosyncrasy, and a study and understanding of such idiosyncrasy, must be implied in this mutual respect, and a unity in all things must follow, of course, when it can be had; and where such unity can not be had, then forbearance on either side must take its place. With this mutual respect and regard for the rights of one another comes the principle of unselfishness; and unselfishness, we maintain, will make marriage an utterly happy thing under almost any conceivable condition, if thoroughly practiced by both parties. The trouble is that it is usually only one of the parties that is called upon to exercise this virtue, and when the habit of the exacting side is formed, the expectations are apt to grow beyond the endurance of the one that has to meet them--the cord is stretched sometimes till it snaps. --Exchange.

I'M SORRY, NOW.

As doth a naughty child at close of day
Creep to his father's side and softly say,
"Father, I'm sorry now, I've been so bad,"
And as the father pardons the wee lad,
So may I seek His Side when Life's day's o'er.
Saying, "Oh, Father," 'mid the tempest's roar,
"I'm sorry now, I could no clearer see,"
More than a Father's love will pardon me.

DEMOCRATS APPRECIATE WORK OF CAMPAIGN CHAIRMAN RHEA

HON. THOMAS S. RHEA

In the placing of credit for the splendid Democratic victory in Kentucky on Tuesday, the major portion is being handed to Thomas S. Rhea, of Logan county, State Treasurer who led the fight for Beckham and Camden as Chairman of the Democratic State Campaign Committee. It was an old time Democratic victory, probably the greatest in Kentucky in thirty years, the majority going above anything given the party in that long time, and Mr. Rhea was the recipient of hundreds of telegrams complimenting him on his leadership and campaign management for the party.

It is conceded that the overwhelming result was largely due to organization, in getting the people aroused and to the polls to vote. Chairman Rhea has long been known down in the Third Congressional district as a campaigner, but this was his first experience, covering so much territory. He brought his methods of organization which have won so much success in county and district politics into the state field. He devoted every energy to that work, so that his own campaign was over and all of his associates were ready to meet every emergency. He made no mistake with his campaign strategy, for the Rhea campaign was a triumph over all opposition. Mr. Rhea carried on a most effective campaign, carried only Kentucky, and his name and campaign strategy were everywhere. He carried the first and last vote to give the voters the opportunity for their vote on the day of election. County and precinct campaign committees were everywhere, and in the contest, and were heard in touch with the State campaign and his speakers' bureau in the end that every section of Kentucky had its Democratic speakers urging upon the people the necessity for going to the polls and voting to uphold President Wilson and his peace policies for the American people.

The one feature of Chairman Rhea's campaign which particularly stands out in the political battle just won was in his handling of the political situation in the city of Louisville and the Fifth Congressional district. Confronted when he undertook to make the party campaign with the fact that the head of the ticket had lost Louisville in the primary last August, and coming out of that city in the election of Tuesday with over twelve thousand majority for that nominee, Democratic hats are off to their chairman. Further, he had to deal with the fact that Louisville had had the habit for several years past of only weakly supporting Democratic candidates and very often giving a majority against them at the polls. Out of all this he brought a result that far surpassed the expectations of those who were associated with him in the fight, the largest Democratic majority the Fifth district has given in over a quarter of a century.

The same clever methods that brought this about in Louisville served as well in pretty nearly every section of the state in the election of Tuesday. Every Congressional district worked harmoniously with the state chairman, and in every one of them the vote was nearly such as it would have been with local races on in the counties.

That the victory just achieved gave the way for Democratic success in the State election of next year is the opinion of the party leaders and every one conversant with political affairs in Kentucky. It demonstrates, they say, that the party is harmonious and united.

Suffered Twenty-One Years--- Finally Found Relief.

Having suffered for twenty one years with a pain in my side, I finally have found relief in Dr. Kimer's Swamp-Root. Injections of morphine were my only relief for short periods of time. I became so sick that I had to undergo a surgical operation in New Orleans, which benefited me for two years. When the same pain came one day I was so sick that I gave up hopes of living. A friend advised me to try your Swamp-Root and I at once commenced using it. The first bottle did me so much good that I purchased two more bottles. I am now on my second bottle and am feeling like a new woman. I passed a gravel stone as large as a big red bean and several small ones. I have not had the least feeling of pain since taking your Swamp-Root and I feel it my duty to recommend this great medicine to all suffering humanity. Gratefully yours,
MRS. JOSEPH CONSTANCE,

Personally appeared before me, this 15th day of July, 1911, Mrs. Joseph Constance, who subscribed to the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

COLLEGE MEN FLAT CHESTED.

Expert Says Indiana Students Don't Know How to Stand.

One out of every six men of the freshmen class of Indiana university is defective physically, according to statistics made public at Bloomington, Ind., by Dr. J. E. P. Holland, physical director of the university. He said this percentage had been fixed after liberal allowances had been made in favor of the individual being examined. Negligence was ascribed as the cause in most of the cases of imperfection.

Flat chests and flat feet were the principal defects. Dr. Holland said that, while he did not approve cigarettes, he did not blame all the flat chests to the nicotine habit. He attributed the present condition mostly to the fact that the men did not know how to stand correctly.

Gymnasium work, designed to expand the chests and lift the arches of the feet, had been arranged by Dr. Holland, who said he hoped that most of the defects would be removed.

Of 156 women of the class examined only seventeen were placed in the corrective classes.

GERMAN CRUISER INTERNS

Not Willing to Take Chances With Foemen Outside Harbor.

Washington special: The navy received a report from the commandant of the navy yard at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, stating that the cruiser Geier and her tender, the German steamer Luckman, have been interned at Honolulu. Japanese cruisers had been waiting outside the harbor for the vessels, which had been undergoing repairs.

This action was the response expected to the notification served on the Geier last week by the state department that she must either leave Honolulu by a certain date not publicly announced, or be interned.

FINANCING OUR CHURCHES.

The Baptist church and the Methodist church in Cloverport are thrilled with enthusiasm of the new duty in their hands—the duty of paying for new heating power in their churches. The Baptist church has already decided a way to raise $500 to pay for the furnace and to cover some current expenses. Most all this amount has been pledged to be paid for with free-will offerings. Different Sunday school classes have made pledges, many members have pledged to give so much a month until the furnace is paid for and the church expects to get the entire amount in ten months. One member said she thought she was giving well to pledge $1.00 a month, but the pastor and his wife pledged a great deal more than that and it made her wonder. The churches in Cloverport are learning the art of quiet giving and the gladness there is in it. We believe the day will come when the churches of Cloverport will not have to ask for money, will not have to beg, sell or burden themselves with raising finances. All the ministers will have to do is to preach the Love of God and the needs to promote His Kingdom. No public subscriptions, no giving on conditions, no sermons and talks on money raising, but quiet giving is the ideal financial plan possible for Cloverport. We need to give more, to give freely and quietly, to pay our pastors willingly and must we add—increase their salaries? They need money to give.

The way our churches have helped themselves most has been by helping others. They started by giving free-will offerings to churches far away from home and now they are financing their own churches with greater voluntary giving. The longest way round is the sweetest way home. Our churches have grown in the missionary missions and by giving to countries like "The Land of the Morning Calm" we have realized blessings that will rest upon generations of tomorrow.

Let us not talk unkindly about people, even when we do not call names. It makes us feel miserable to remark about "some people." Dismiss "some people" from your mind, if their names are not worth calling, thoughts of them are not worth thinking. Think of those who are accomplishing great good in this world, think of the neighbor you love and you will soon love all the rest. "Some people" is only a way of saying things about those we do not like and the world nearly always knows exactly whom you mean. Keep on thinking of your best friends, and after a while, you will have ten times as many.

LIFE IN VERA CRUZ, MEXICO

By James W. Dell.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Wilson, McQuady, Kentucky.

Dearest friends:—

I know you would like to hear from Vera Cruz and you would also like to know what I think of the inhabitants. As you all know I spent four months of watchful waiting at Texas City during the summer months, and I had begun to think I would never see Mexico, on the 12th of September I received orders to be ready to sail on the 15th. So on the 15th sixty-four of us boarded the San Marcos, a small chartered transport, for the land of our youthful dreams of adventures and romances. This trip was not made for our benefit, but was a regular trip of the San Marcos as a supply ship. We had a very nice and pleasant trip; the weather was good and the sea calm.

Early one morning of the 18th, we could see a dim outline of a mountain range to the southwest, which we knew could be none other than the mountains of old Mexico. About 10 o'clock we could see the city of Vera Cruz in the distance, and about noon we got close enough to begin to look for certain landmarks that we knew to be a feature of the place. The first we look for is Mt. Orizaba, which we look for in vain, as the day is rather hazy it cannot be seen. The other is the Castle of San Juan de Ulloa, which we easily recognize by its towers and thick walls and bastions for cannon masts. The fort city is situated on a bay of at least an indentation of the coast line which gives them a safe harbor for shipping. The only thing in the way of the harbor here is a concrete basin filled with breakwater and is not a very safe one as we can see half a dozen wrecks lying on the beach.

The docking facilities are excellent, and well they might be as their port is to Mexico what New York is to us. We went ashore about 2 p. m., reported at the headquarters of the fourth field artillery and were assigned to B. Battery C, an organization I had served with in the Philippines seven years ago. But I found only five men left in the battalion when I knew.

We found that since we left the States orders had been received to evacuate the city, but no date had been set to leave, and in a few days transports began to arrive and we loaded all bulky material so that when the date should be set we could get away upon short notice. More than three weeks have passed and we are still here, with all indications pointing to a longer stay. However time and time only will tell the story.

I have had lots of time at my disposal and have spent most of it in exploring the city to its extreme limit and to all points of the compass. It is like all other cities of Spanish culture that I have visited, and yet in other ways it is quite different. What struck me as greatly different is that their streets are straight and fairly broad. Their streets are of asphalt, that is, the business districts. The houses are all two-story—very few of them higher—and most all are made of brick and mortar, plastered with cement and painted over either a pale blue, red or orange color. The roof is red tile.

At present it is absolutely the cleanest place I ever saw. Some of the men tell me that when the troops came here that it was filthy. Others say that it is no filthier than many cities in the States. I am inclined to believe the latter statement.

In the center of the town is a large square called the Plaza. On one side is an immense cathedral and on the other side is the city hall. On the two remaining sides the walks are wide and here we see an institution of which we have heard but never seen—that is open air cafes and on the side walks. In the center is a lunch stand, while on the outer rim there is a wide promenade, where there is always a band concert, weather permitting. Here of an evening one may see the elite of the city—the ladies—in what I suppose to be the latest Parisian creations. Some of them are very elegant and aristocratic in appearance. I am speaking of the pure whites and those nearly so. The largest majority of the people are either pure Indian or half-breeds.

ARRAYS MOSLEMS AGAINST ALLIES

Turks' Entry Into War Aimed at British Rule in India.

ENGLISH EYES ON EGYPT.

Nominally Part of Turkish Empire, but Really Subject to London's Rule. It May Support Sultan's Stand. Captain of Crack Ottoman Cruiser Trained in America.

With the opening of hostilities by Turkey against Russia the number of warring nations is increased to ten. The other nine, in the order of their beginning hostilities, are Austria, Serbia, Germany, Russia, France, Montenegro, Belgium, Great Britain and Japan.

Ever since fighting began the Kaiser on the one hand and the allies on the other have been bidding for Turkish support, and the former, by virtue of his careful attention during a period of many years to Turkish susceptibilities, has triumphed over the Turkish fear of Russia and the British fleet and whatever gratitude the Porte may feel for England's support in time past.

The world at large first realized that the Turkish empire might play an important part in the great struggle when on Aug. 11 the Breslau and the Goeben, the two German cruisers caught in the Mediterranean at the outbreak of hostilities, managed to elude the fleets of the allies and take refuge in the Dardanelles.

According to international law, they were safe so long as they remained in a neutral port, but they must either come out after twenty-four hours or consent to be interned for the period of the war. Turkey, however, rose superior to custom and permitted them to stay on, giving out that she had purchased them for her own navy in place of the two battleships building in England on her order which had been taken over for the British navy.

Breslau and Goeben Now Turkish.

The two cruisers since then have appeared as Turkish vessels. It has also been said that Germany has been trying to forward to them by land considerable numbers of sailors. It has been rumored that under the Turkish flag they have still retained their German crews.

Meanwhile the Porte has denounced the capitulations—that is, the concessions to Christian powers which permit their nationals to be subject only to their own consular law courts, allow them to maintain their own post offices, and so on. It has been an unpleasant thing for the powers affected, including this country, to face this, but in the present chaos it has been impossible for any one nation to do more than protest.

By getting Turkey to join him in the fight on the allies the Kaiser has been dealing another blow at England, since the Turkish Sultan is the nominal head of all the Mohammedans on earth. Great Britain is the greatest Mohammedan power in the world. In Egypt and India she has under her rule an enormous number of followers of the prophet. France also, through her great African possessions, has to consider the Mohammedan problem.

May Cause Trouble in Egypt.

Egypt is still nominally part of the Turkish empire, although to all intents and purposes it has been incorporated in the British empire, and there is a possibility that the cry of the Sultan for help might cause disturbances. In India, too, the preaching of a holy war by the Mohammedans might give rise to a great deal of trouble. But, on the other hand, England can point to the excellent effect on her position in Egypt of the reforms of Lord Kitchener, to the fact that the Aga Kuhn, the religious head of Indian Mohammedanism, has declared himself in her favor, and above all, to the fact that at this moment there are Mohammedan Indian soldiers fighting for her in Europe.

To Americans the inclusion of Turkey in the war has significance through the presence in the Levant of the United States cruiser North Carolina. An outbreak of the Moslems against the Christians, the Jews or the Armenians is likely at some point or another, and American missionaries may be in danger.

The Hamidieh, most active of Turkish ships, is an armored cruiser of 3,800 tons, built in England and completed in 1901. She carries two six-inch, eight 4.7 inch and four smaller guns and three torpedo tubes and has a complement of 302 men. Her speed is twenty-two knots.

In the Balkan war the Hamidieh made a brilliant record, similar to the exploits of the German cruisers Emden and Karlsruhe in the present conflict. Her commander, Captain Reuf, had studied American naval methods during a stay of some years in this country and had with him on his ship two American officers.

Costs Italy $1,000,000 a Day.

Italy has spent at the rate of $1,000,000 a day since the war began to place her army in a state of preparedness. A government announcement shows that in addition to the ordinary appropriations the cabinet had arranged up to Oct. 9 for the use by the military administration of $41,000,000 lire ($85,000,000).

TURKEY MAY FORCE ITALY INTO THE WAR

Situation in Tripoli Becoming Menacing.

May Avert "Holy War."

London, Nov. 9.—The news from Egypt is reassuring. There is no indication that the efforts of Turkey and Germany to stir the Moslems to revolt has been successful. Religious leaders and tribal chiefs seem to have rejected Turkey's demand for a holy war and are promising loyalty to the empire.

Rome, Nov. 9.—Italy is sending troops to Tripoli to defend her settlements and loyal tribesmen against Arab rebels and Bedouins who have raided supply columns in the interior and have attacked an encampment of submissive tribesmen at Ierna.

Turkey has disregarded the promise made to Italy by Germany that the Porte would not threaten Italian colonies, and that Turkey had no designs on Tripoli. Events are tending more and more to force Italy into the war on the side of the allies. The newest, most momentous crisis has developed in Cyrenalca, due to the aggressions of Bedouins stirred by the preachments of Turkish and German agents.

News received here indicates Turkey's intention to drive the Italians out of Tripoli and to regain the provinces lost in the war between Italy and Turkey. For a week Bedouins in the interior have waylaid small detachments of troops and have fired upon and wounded Italian soldiers. Bedouins appeared in force at Derna, on the eastern extremity of the Cyrenalca promontory and made a savage effort to destroy the encampment there. The desert marauders were driven off by Italian infantrymen.

It seems probable that Italy, within the next day or so, will demand an explanation from Turkey and possibly from Germany, since Germany has assumed to guarantee the safety of Tripoli.

FLAGS FLOWN AT SEA.

Significance of Certain Colors in the International Code.

From time immemorial flags have been flown by ships at sea all over the world, but it is only in more recent years that an international code has been adopted. All the countries of the world now conform to fixed rules about the flying of certain flags, though, of course, each navy has its own secret code for use in war time.

The national flag of any ship when hoisted upside down denotes that the ship in question is in difficulties and requires immediate assistance, which any passing ship is required to give if possible.

The quarantine flag is a plain yellow square, hoisted on the foremast, which indicates that the ship has got an infectious disease on board or that it has come from an infected port. No person is allowed either to go on board or to leave such a ship until permission is granted by the sanitary authorities of the port.

In all parts of the world a white flag is accepted as a token of peace, a red flag as that of defiance and a black flag as that of a pirate. A green flag flying from the masthead of a ship or barge at night indicates that there is a wreck in the vicinity. The same is denoted by a green buoy placed over the spot.

When a red flag is flying on the foremast it is a sign that the ship has powder, shell or ammunition on board and serves as a warning to other ships not to come too near in case of accidents. It is called the danger or more commonly the powder flag.—London Globe.

How Soldiers Win Mention In the Dispatches of Their Commanders.

ONE of the greatest honors which can be accorded to a French soldier is to be cited in the order of the day. I give the following typical excerpts from a newly published list, says a war correspondent out of the Chateau de la Ferté, which covers a thrilling feat of bravery, which, properly told, would quicken the reader's heart. Yet here they are as laconic as telegrams:

"Fragrant, a re-enlisted sergeant of the Sixth Infantry, all the officers of the company being killed, took command himself and fell mortally wounded while leading his men into the firing at the edge of a wood."

"Lapouble, second lieutenant in the Fifty-seventh Infantry, already twice wounded, continued to lead the combat at the head of his section with an ardor above praise until the moment when he was struck dead."

"Fellel, captain, and Han, lieutenant in the Twelfth Infantry, during eight days, with tireless tenacity, resisted heroically a heavy artillery bombardment and infantry attacks fifty yards distant. When they quitted the farm which they had occupied they left behind only crumbling walls, which threatened to bury them."

France Has Twelve Year Soldier.

A writer in the Petit Parisien says that he was challenged by two sentinels at the entrance to a village, one of whom he was surprised to see was a mere child, though on horseback with a rifle and wearing the regulation and still control over his nervous system.

"We go to another tank."
"This man has a bullet lodged in the pericardium, the sack which encloses the heart. We have made an X ray picture of it. The man needs with a snail as we pass. A nurse brings him a bowl of soup, which he thoroughly enjoys."

"Will he live? I ask."

"Yes, we think so."

"These men, many of them shattered physically for the rest of their lives, are all young. They are the cream of the army, boys between eighteen and twenty-four years old, I judge."

uniform of a cuirassier. When questioned the boy told the following story, which seems to justify his claim to be called the youngest soldier in France:

"I am twelve years old. My name is Paul Waterlin. I used to live at Creil, where I was a boy scout. Not wishing to live alone after my father, who is a noncommissioned officer in the Thirty-second artillery, went to the front—my mother has been dead a long time—I hid in a troop train, which took me to Namur. There I picked up a wounded man's rifle and fought in the trenches. Afterward Colonel de B. of the cuirassiers sent for me. He said I had done well and might stay with his regiment. He let me keep my rifle and ordered that a uniform and a horse be given me. Since then I have been through the battles of Denain, Meux and the Marne, and I am going north again soon."

When asked how he liked a soldier's life the boy said it was much better than living in houses, which many people who wished to adopt him tried to persuade him to do.

"At the end of our conversation," says the writer, "he lit the cigarette I proffered, blew a big cloud of smoke into the air and chuckled off, sitting his horse with true soldierly smartness."

Among the German Wounded.

"I have been traveling on a train to Berlin with the wounded," cables a correspondent from Germany. "The slightly wounded are in first and second class carriages, while the injured, as they are called here, goods cars, are fitted with bunks for the badly hurt."

"One youth has been struck at an angle through the left eye. Of course he was lucky that the bullet had not come straight at him. Yet it is hard to lose an eye when you are young and an athlete for this soldier was one of the German Olympic games team, which until the war began was training under the American athletic instructors who had been brought over here."

"Below him lies a most remarkable case—a man, dying conscious and even cheerful after a bullet had passed through his head from front to back. The surgeon says the bullet must have taken a course between the large and small brains, for the wounded man a gray bearded man applied for a place in the cavalry. He was Henry Climpin and admitted that his age was seventy-three years. "Old as I am, I can still do a fairly hard day in the saddle," he said. "So I have applied for a place where on horseback I can strike a blow for my country."

He "Bucked" the German Line.

George Andre, the noted French all-around athlete, outdistanced his comrades in a bayonet charge near Arras, wrenched a standard from the German hand, football his way through an amazed group of German infantry and, although wounded in the foot, regained the French lines.

"Please Fire," Says Duelist.

A French battalion occupied Mezières in order to guard the bridges over the Meuse. One detachment had hardly arrived at the railroad bridge when its officer, Lieutenant de Lapelle, was informed that a German patrol was hidden in the station. The French at once attacked and drove the Germans here and there among the heaps of coal and the buildings. The French officer followed the German officer into the roundhouse, revolver in hand, and caught sight of him crouching behind a tender. The two men looked at each other. Mutual respect and a tact on demanding sprang up. With fifteen paces between them each took up a dueling position. "Kindly fire!" cried the Frenchman, just as his ancestors had cried at Fontenoy under similar circumstances. The German fired and missed. Then the Frenchman slowly raised his arm and fired, killing his opponent.

He returned to his men, added them to overcome the Germans' last stand and walked away coolly at the head of his battalion.

Lieutenant Wins the Iron Cross.

German papers speak of an encounter between outposts of French dragons and German hussars, in the course of which a well known daring rider, Lieutenant von Falkenhause, found himself face to face with an even more famous horseman, his far surer rival in the field of sport, M. de Fourmies. Lieutenant von Falkenhause overcame his opponent after a brief struggle and made him a prisoner—an achievement which earned for him the Iron Cross.

Machine Gun Duel in the Air.

From a height of 8,000 feet a French mechanic in an aeroplane piloted by Louis Paulhan, the first aviator to fly from London to Manchester, struck down a German machine after a thrilling machine gun duel. The mechanic writes:

"We were flying over the German lines toward Amiens beyond the range of the enemy's aeroplane guns when a Taube emerged below us from behind a cloud. Paulhan turned the nose of our machine downward. We came on his level. The German began to fire without effect."

"We swung within 600 feet of the Taube, which thereupon took a wide sweep in volplane and offered a splendid target."

"My first broadside inflicted a mortal damage, the Taube falling from 8,000 feet like a stone. Our petrol tank, however, was punctured by a bullet, and we succeeded in planing behind our own batteries only by a miracle."

Bavarian's Picture of Battlefield.

The Wuerzburg General Anzleger publishes the following description of a battle in France as given by a Bavarian lieutenant on the firing line: "Suddenly we were rushing forward. The enemy hurled shells at us from the hills. After heavy losses we reached another small forest at the bottom of the hill occupied by the enemy. His artillery now kept up continuous firing at the forest."

"A shell explodes in a pit not more than three feet from my position. Screams like the yells of wounded animals reach my ear."

"The soldier to my left is hit in the head by a bullet. He tries to raise his hand, but his strength has left him. To the right a soldier has been hit in his arm by a bullet. It had open the arteries. With a cord I tie his arm to prevent his bleeding to death."

OUR COASTS WELL GUARDED.

Could Repel Any Attack, Says Head of Fortification Committee.

"The United States is so well fortified, with the exception of two points, where work now is in progress, that an attack from the sea probably will never be made on any of these fortifications," said Representative Swager Sherley in an authorized statement in Louisville, Ky. Mr. Sherley is chairman of the house committee on fortifications.

"The theory upon which the fortifications have been constructed," said Mr. Sherley, who led up to the subject with a discussion of the seventeen inch guns used by the Germans in Belgium, the existence of which, he said, he doubted, "is to protect important harbors from a direct attack by a hostile fleet. This has been done except at San Pedro, Cal., where emplacements for guns are being built and at the mouth of the Chesapeake where land has been acquired, and estimates shortly will be submitted for placing sixteen inch guns, along with other armament, that should protect that entrance."

"Our guns are of the most modern pattern," he continued, "and are capable of destroying the most modern super-Dreadnought. Whether it may be thought advisable in the future to prepare certain minor defenses in the rear of our coast fortifications is a matter about which there is some difference of opinion."

STRAW AS A STOCK FEED.

Combined With Silage and Cottonseed It Is a Valuable Ration. (Prepared by Kansas State Agricultural college.)

It doesn't pay to burn wheat and oat straw, says W. A. Cochel, professor of animal husbandry in the Kansas State Agricultural college. Sufficient feed was wasted and destroyed in the state during the winter and spring of 1913 to have fed all the cattle which were sacrificed on a glutted market.

Instead of wasting feed at the Hays experiment station as much of it as possible was utilized for maintenance of breeding herds. The result was that while every farmer near the station was forced to overgraze his wheat land and finally to sell his herds, the station maintained its normal number of live stock and actually increased the size of the herds and flocks, which were used to consume feed that ordinarily would have been wasted.

It costs $4.44 a head to keep cattle a hundred days in the middle of winter, using silage valued at $2.00 a ton, straw 50 cents a ton and cottonseed cake at $30 a ton. The ration includes twenty pounds of silage daily, one pound of cottonseed cake daily and all the wheat straw they can eat. This ration has been tested for three winters at Hays.

It will cost on an average of $20, says Professor Cochel, to produce a beef calf in the short grass section of western Kansas. Figuring pasturage at $7.50 and winter feeding at $6.00, it costs $14.16 to keep a breeding cow a year. A beef calf will cost less than $20. These calves for the last three years have been worth an average of $35, a profit of $15 a head.

REPORT LITTLE CHANGE

Rival Armies Still Deadlocked.

A GIGANTIC STRUGGLE

Forces Fighting in France and Belgium Well Matched.

BOTH CLAIMING ADVANCES

None of These, However, Are In Any Way Decisive.

Berlin special: General headquarters reports that attacks near Ypres and west of Lille have been continued. An important elevation near Vienne-La-Chateau, on the west of the Argonne, which has been the object of firing for weeks past, was taken. Two guns and two quick firers were captured. For the rest the foggy day passed calmly in the western theater of the war. On the east nothing new has transpired.

Paris special: According to the latest reports the Germans appear to have concentrated their activity in the region of Ypres without results. On the River Aisne the French have reached the northeast of Soissons, the plateau of Vregny, on which they have not yet gained a foothold. They have taken the offensive in the region north of Mesennes and have gained around Soissons and in the region of Vailly to the north of Chavonne, and Soupir. They repulsed German attacks between La Bassee and Arras and at Craonelle.

The government reports of the fighting indicate that the allies are driving the Germans from the fortified crests along the Aisne, the bulwark of the invaders' extended line in northern France.

Allies Gain Important Point.
Elsewhere from Ypres to the Craonelle region, the allies made slight advances or firmly held their ground, but the all-important feature of the government's latest statement is the successful attack by the allies northeast of Soisson. Sunday they drove the Germans from the plateau of Vregny, the most notable advance in that region which has been attained since the siege operations began seven weeks ago.

Previously, for a month, the French have been slowly and at painful effort winning the advanced trenches of the Germans above the Aisne and had seized half of the plateau north of Soissons. The capture of the crest of Vregny means that they now have a foothold in the highlands, which will enable the heavy French guns to combat the German artillery on equal terms. Should the positions be maintained and supported by advances elsewhere along the Aisne, there would be an alternative left to the Germans but to retreat to the Meuse.

Pushing Germans Backward.

The Germans have retained the offensive only in one main area of fighting, the region of Ypres, where they have concentrated new army corps for an effort to break through the allied line and reach Bourlogne. Saturday the allies faced and flung back violent attacks and even gained some ground near Mesennes. Southward, along the west flank, it appears from official report that the allies are masters of offensive and are pushing the Germans backward.

On the Yser the great bridgeport at Neuport has been recaptured by the allies, according to an official statement issued by the Belgian officials which says the Lombardy front and also St. Georges and certain farms on the river valley are held by the Belgians. Stuyvenskerke and Chateau Vierge have been evacuated. Dixmure was violently bombarded and a severe German attack at this point was repulsed.

The Germans again occupy St. Georges and Dentoren. These points are being bombarded by Belgian artillery. Stuyvenskerke is filled with the corpses of the Germans. In the region of Ypres the enemy directed violent attacks upon Bixschotte and to the west of Wytschaete. They have all been driven back by counter offensives of the allies.

Russians Have Broken the German Defense.

Petrograd special: Russia has definitely begun the long promised invasion of Germany. A Russian advance guard has broken the German defense at the River Wnrtbe and has penetrated ten miles within the province of Posen, holding a position at Pleaschen, which is fifteen miles northwest of Kallisz and sixty miles northeast of Breslau. For the first time since the war began the czar's troops have set foot in a province where the great estates of the German nobles are located.

Simultaneously the Russian drive at East Prussia has driven the Germans from Wirballen, their last position in the Russian province of Suwalki and have overflowed East Prussian territory from Stalluponen, the Russian front being ten miles from East Prussia.

On the southern front, southwest Poland and Galicia, the advance of the Russians has been equally rapid and irresistible. An advance guard which drove the Austrians and Saxons southward along the left bank of the Vistula after the great victory of Oct. 13 to Oct. 25, has reached the River Nidzica, less than thirty-five miles from Cracow and the closest a Russian army has ever been to the gateway of Silesia. This movement has had two results. It makes the capture of Cracow a probability and it has cut off the two Austrian armies, estimated with their German supporting corps, at about 600,000 men, which have been operating at the River San and south of Przemyśl.

Best Cough Medicine for Children.

"Three years ago when I was living in Pittsburgh one of my children had a hard cold and coughed dreadfully. Upon the advice of a druggist I purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and it benefited him at once. I find it the best cough medicine for children because it is pleasant to take. They do not object to taking it," writes Mrs. Lafayette Tuck, Homer City, Pa. This remedy contains no opium or other narcotic, and may be given to a child as confidently as to an adult. Sold by all dealers.

A NEW DREAM OF EMPIRE

Germans Will Rule the World, Is Kaiser's Prediction.

Copenhagen special: A German who was present when the Kaiser addressed his troops last week reports the emperor as saying:
"We are now fighting for the life of Germany. They wish to kill Germany, but I say if we gain, and we must, a new empire will arise more splendid than the world ever saw—a new Roman German empire, which will rule the world, and the world will be happy."

SENT CARRANZA THE LAST WORD

Mexican Peace Conference Issues An Ultimatum.

HE MUST GIVE UP TOMORROW

Deposed Provisional President of Troubled Republic Must Bow to the Will of the Convention Which Ousted Him and Vacate His Office Before Tomorrow Evening or Accept the Consequences of Another War.

El Paso, Nov. 9.—Juarez has received a report from the south that Villa has General Gutierrez under arrest and heavily guarded at Aguas Calientes. It is said that the reason for the action was that he failed to live up to the dictations and demands of the Villa people.

Washington, Nov. 9.—Carranza has until 6 o'clock tomorrow night to make up his mind whether he will relinquish the provisional presidency of Mexico with a struggle or whether he will fight for the retention of his present office.

The news that the convention has sent such an ultimatum to Carranza was received here officially. The convention demands that before tomorrow evening he announce his recognition of the sovereignty of the convention and how to it vacating his office, from which the convention already has deposed him and named General Estelita Gutierrez in his place. Officials here are confident that by Wednesday next a decisive turn will have been given the situation and there will be some basis for estimating whether there is to be war or peace in Mexico.

Further indications that Carranza is engaged in an attempt to stir up popular sentiment in southern Mexico in favor of himself in his contest with the convention by instigating the issue of Vera Cruz, are apparent here. It became known that while inflammatory posters published and distributed by Masons in Mexico City were promptly suppressed, they were reprinted in all the newspapers a few days later.

General Funston cabled Secretary Garrison in response to the latter's inquiry that there seemed to be no cause for alarm.

"Many unsubstantiated rumors have prevailed for a long time," cabled General Funston. "I think it better to discredit unsubstantiated reports. There is nothing alarming in local conditions in Vera Cruz."

TORTURED THEIR VICTIMS

Mexicans Waylay, Slay and Rob Three American Travelers.

El Paso, Nov. 9.—Fighting doggedly behind a wagon barricade until their ammunition gave out, three Americans were killed by mounted Mexicans at Chocolate Pass, Chihuahua, according to word brought by a Mexican servant of the American party, who declared the Americans were captured, shot and tortured to death and their wagon robbed.

The Americans, Carl Eck, William Boshop and Charles West, all of this city, were travelling from El Paso to Louk's ranch, south of Casas Grandes, in northwestern Chihuahua. As the wagon entered the narrow defile of Chocolate Pass, the Mexicans, charging on horseback, opened fire on the party. The Americans, seizing rifles and pistols, dropped behind the wagon and returned the fire, wounding a Mexican, killing a horse and routing the attackers. The Mexicans withdrew a short distance, pursued by bullets, and dismounted. Hiding in the undergrowth and behind pine trees, they opened a steady fire on the Americans. The horses attached to the wagon were shot down. The wagon was riddled with bullets. Eck, a boy of seventeen years, was wounded in the leg, but continued firing as steadily as his companions. The Mexican servant was unarmed, he said, and took the first opportunity to hide.

The fighting continued more than an hour. Then the Americans' ammunition gave out and the Mexicans, numbering eight or ten, rushed in. There was a brief hand to hand fight, and the Americans were bound.

The servant, watching the fight from a distance, said the Mexicans beat, knifed and clubbed their prisoners, and then fell to looting the wagon, after which they rode away with their two wounded companions. William Eck, uncle of the murdered man, has headed a party to recover the bodies if possible. Whether or not the attacking party consisted of soldiers or bandits, the informant could not say.

Two years ago Mr. Gruelle suffered a stroke of paralysis and had been falling since that time. He was sixty-three years old.

RISE OF FRITZ A. HEINZE WAS MOST SPECTACULAR.

From Mining Engineer to Inner Circles of High Finance.

Of the lives of American miners of millions the comparatively short one of Fritz Augustus Heinze, who died in Saratoga Springs, N. Y., is the most picturesque in the swiftness of his rise from a mining engineer at $5 a day in the west to a millionaire mine owner at twenty-eight and in his thirties an invader of the inner circles of high finance in the east.

His father, a German importer, lived in Pierrepont street, Brooklyn, where Fritz was born in December, 1859. When very young he was sent to schools in Germany. Fritz returned when he was fifteen.

From the Brooklyn polytechnic he went to Columbia university, from which he graduated in 1880 as an engineer. He went to Butte, Mont., and a job with the Boston and Montana company at $5 a day.

He came east to receive a legacy of $50,000 left by his grandmother. He tried to induce his brothers, Otto and Arthur, lawyers, to go west with him. Arthur accepted the offer.

With his $50,000 Heinze leased the Estrella claim in Butte from James A. Murray and built a small smelter. With $225,000 profit taken from the Estrella mine he got control of the Itanus mine and later of the Glenary mine. Then he built a big smelter. He invaded British Columbia and built a smelter and a narrow gauge railroad. He became so important that the Canadian Pacific railroad paid him, then twenty-eight years old, $1,200,000 for his railroad.

He established his brothers in the Stock Exchange firm of Otto C. Heinze & Co., bought control of the Mercantile National bank from Edwin Gould and became its president. In October, 1907, when all the bankers were husbanding their resources against an impending storm Heinze tried to corner United Copper stock. The result was the wreck of his brothers' firm, and Heinze was forced to resign the presidency of the Mercantile National bank.

Heinze married on Aug. 31, 1910, an actress, Mrs. Bernice Golden Henderson, fifteen years his junior and former wife of Charles A. Henderson, who paid her $100 a week alimony. In 1911 F. Augustus Heinze, Jr., was born. Eighteen months later Mrs. Heinze obtained a divorce, with alimony of $1,000 a month. Mrs. Heinze is dead.

THEY WILL NOT FORGET IT

German Threat of Vengeance Against Japan.

Berlin special: The Lokal Anzeiger, commenting on the German defeat at Tsingtao, says:
"Germans will never forget the heroic fighting at Kinchochin and those who defend the colony. Never shall we forget the brutal violence of the yellow robbers for England, who instigated them. We know that we cannot settle our account with Japan at present. For years she will enjoy her booty. Our mills will grind slowly, but even if years should pass before the right moment comes at last, then a shout of joy will resound through Germany. Voe to you, Nippon!"

Modern War

It need to be, in days gone by
Before invention's revel,
Twas plain enough to every eye
That war was on the level.

But now if you would truly strive
To make a good impression
Of enemies who may arrive

And if you wish to lose no chance
To ward off battle slaughter,
You have to take a careful glance

Like this beneath the water.

Despondency Due to Indigestion.

It is not at all surprising that persons who have indigestion become discouraged and despondent. Here are a few words of hope and cheer for them by Mrs. Blanche Bowers, of Indiana, Pa. "For years my digestion was so poor that I could only eat the lightest foods. I tried every thing that I heard of to get relief, but not until about a year ago when I saw Chamberlain's Tablets advertised and got a bottle of them, did I find the right treatment. I soon began to improve, and since taking a few bottles of them my digestion is fine." For sale by all dealers.

A GENERAL SURVEY OF THE WAR

The Russians are well on their way in the execution of their deferred plan to march against Cracow and thence upon Breslau and Posen. This operation was in process of accomplishment when the Germans began their counter offensive and were allowed to approach almost to the gates of Warsaw before the Russian strategists decided the moment had come to crush them. Now that the Germans have been soundly beaten, in retreat all along the line and unable to reinforce threatened points sufficiently to check the great Russian forces, the decision has apparently been reached to push an invading army into Silesia and an offensive entire front.

In East Prussia the Russians are attacking fiercely and are driving the Germans from lines of defense well within German territory. Lyck has been taken and Mlawka, used by the Germans for many weeks as a base for operations in north Poland, is now in the hands of the Russians. The German retreat from Poland has resulted in the transfer of General von Hindenburg's headquarters to Czernistochowa, on the Silesian frontier. The Russians are using captured cannon against the Germans. Many Mussulmans are fighting with the Russian armies in Poland.

Some Sensational Rumors.

Unofficial reports are conflicting. There are rumors that the Germans are about to give up the fight in Belgium and northern France and are sending trained troops to defend East Prussia and Silesia; that Brussels is practically evacuated, and that they have withdrawn farther into Belgium than is mentioned in the official communications. On the other hand, there is a report that the Kaiser is rushing 300,000 troops to reinforce his armies in Belgium and France and that traffic on German railways has been halted to put through troop trains.

The Bulgarian prime minister has officially announced that Bulgaria will maintain a strict and loyal neutrality toward all the countries at war. The new Bulgarian minister to Russia gave an interview upon his arrival in Petrograd which apparently foreshadows a pro-Russian policy for Bulgaria. He also said that he believed the present war would completely change existing relations, and he expressed himself as convinced that the relations between Bulgaria, Serbia and Greece would become excellent.

May Draw Persia Into It.

The news from Persia indicates that German and Turkish influences are strongly at work. Salared Dowleh, pretender to the throne, has announced himself openly as Germany's candidate for the rulership of Persia. Reports from Tabriz say that the Turkish minister there has been arrested and that the German and Austrian consuls have taken refuge in the consulate of the United States. All classes of Persian society are aroused by the action of Turkey, according to a dispatch to Petrograd, which says that the German and Turkish ministers have been doing everything in their power to bring Persia into active participation in the war against Russia and England. It seems, though, that the Persian people are divided, as, indeed, is the case even in Turkey.
